THE NATIONAL BANK

Of Logan. What a National Bank is. A National Institution, Endorsed By the Government.

Our old and popular and long established First Bank of Logan has secured its charter and is now doing business under the title and by Government authority, as the National Bank of Logan.

A National Bank is in one sense, a Government Bank. It is regulated by Government laws, and subject to Government inspection.

The first requisite in establishing a National Bank in money. Real estate, and personal property will not answer. The Logan National Bank announces a cash capital of $50,000. The directors must put this amount of cash in the Bank vaults. The Bank has authority to issue its own money notes of the National Bank of Logan.

Before the notes can be issued, the Bank must deposit with the comptroller of the National Treasury, Government Bonds, as guarantee, for the validity of the notes printed and put in circulation. Our Bank wishes to issue, say $28,000. This amount of Bonds must be deposited with the Government. The Bank then issues $28,000 currency notes, $21,000 of which can be put in circulation. One-fourth of the amount issued, say $7,000 must be withheld from circulation, and kept as a reserve for the redemption of soiled or mutilated currency. A Bank note may get torn, a splash of ink or dirt of any kind soils it. On presentation to the Bank, this soiled note is taken up and a new note from the reserve fund given in exchange.

The National Bank is subject, at any time, and without foreknowledge to an inspection from a Government officer, who examines its condition. The Bank, at stated periods must publish a statement of its assets a liabilities, so that the public may know exactly its financial condition.

Our National Bank has a deposit of over four hundred thousand dollars. Its patrons are the leading business men of the city, and the substantial farmers of the country. The Bank has money to loan, and is cheerful to accommodate its patrons, in sums as may be desired.

The personnel of the Bank are gentlemen of high personal character, public spirit, and gentlemanly manners who make it pleasant for all who deal with them.

Long may the National continue to guard our money and give us, when needed, an accommodation.
